

Sir,

I am a citizen of Australia and I am proud to be an Australian. Recently the immigration is going to change a law regarding skill migration permanent residency.

I would like to request the Senate Committee to process all the application that immigration already accepted. There are lot of people who applied for permanent residency for more than one year and waiting for their permanent residency. The immigration visa processing department already accepted their application according to the rules and regulation. So, they should get the positive results as they met all the requirements when they applied. So they deserve permanent residency as they full fill the requirement when they applied.

The government might realize that there are too many applications right now. But the government should calculate the problem before and it is not the applicant's fault.

If no one can get the permanent residency, Australia is going to loose thousands of international students which is going to effect the Australian economic income as it is one of the biggest industry in Australia.

I would like to kindly request my government or Senate Committee to process all the applications that had been lodged and pass the bills like from next year no more applications will be accepted within that criteria or something like that.

Thank you very much.

Kind regards

Anisur Rahman
