

I strongly oppose the Government's proposal to enforce a breakup of Telstra.

It is an incredible situation when a Government divests of its own interest in a Company and shortly after proposes legislation to compel a private company to sell assets and dictate how that company should compete in the market.

The proposal is outrageous and particularly considering the government's involvement and actions prior to the announcement and I wonder how many other industries are going to have such government interference.

Yours sincerely,

Ron Newell - Albury NSW