Dear Committee Secretary,

Re: Submission into the issues facing diaspora communities in Australia

This submission will be in two parts, with the 1st part dealing with issues facing Asian community in general and with 2nd part illustrating the stress and trauma faced by the 1.2 million Chinese Australians. Part 1 will also contain the strategies that will assist the diaspora to overcome difficult issues and will not be repeated in Part 2.

We have split the submission in two parts to focus on the Chinese Australian separately, but we are painfully aware that the remedy for resolving community issues are similar for both and therefore, must employ similar strategies. With the recent development of shifts in global geopolitics, the necessity of balance of nuance and complexity is not always evident in the polarized political environment when it spills over into the community relationships. Parts of our communities will stay marginalized and are left adrift in the middle unless dealt with.

Part I – Asian Australians in General

Issues facing diaspora communities in Australia, with particular reference to:

(a) support offered to diaspora community associations and similar organisations, including government grants and other funding;

In general, community-based funding are the less understood process among the diaspora community association with the advantage going to the long established communities who have the resources gather information of community needs. Those with lesser resources hardly knows what to do,

The current practice of grant applications, grant supervision and grant 'discharge' report are too bureaucratic and these tedious procedures discourage applications for needy and grants. A return to the community model for grant distribution is recommended and commercial model is not necessarily culturally sensitive. In the 1990s, government grants for the community was made by a Committee with Community Leaders participation, eg. the NSW Casino Grants.

(b) safety concerns among diaspora communities, and means for strengthening the protection and resilience of vulnerable groups;

The current major safety concern among diaspora communities is the xenophobia or racism experience by people of colour. The report by Asian Alliance showed that in April 2020, about 400 cases of racism was reported to them but a few were reported to the Police.

<https://www.abc.net.au/news/2020-07-24/coronavirus-racism-report-reveals-asian-australians-abuse/12485734>

Government has the responsibility to recognize the challenges, that Asian Australians face with the phenomena of firstly xenophobia in the community and secondly institutional bias in industry. Government has the task of providing the right blend of leadership that emphasizes the bringing together and promotion of mutual understanding with diaspora.

This Senate committee inquiry is very much welcomed in current times. We acknowledge that such inquiry involves issues that represent both challenges and opportunities.

We recommend that a Cohesion Report is made to study the commitment and contribution of Asian Australians from a social and economic view. Such a process will review the facts to quantify and qualify both, the economic contributions and the social impact.

This may include studies using surveys, statistics and targeted assessments in areas of specific interest, in collaboration with community and industry associations, advisory bodies, research groups, key business organizations, government bureaucracy and academic institutions.

Community diaspora community leaders will be engaged.

A plan for funding such a scope would also need to be made for early consideration.

Rationale of the Cohesion Report focuses on a number of ideas.

Firstly there is a need to address barriers to increased participation of diaspora communities towards a fuller and inclusive role in government and develop policies to ensure it becomes so in Australia democratic and social institutions.

Secondly, there is a need to build the foundation for strong joint liaison between government / community leaders to build co-operation and linkages. And design policies to strengthen communication and partnerships between diaspora groups and government and related stakeholders.

Thirdly, there are local advantages in working with diaspora communities for specific input for understanding, developing and implementing areas of National Security, Foreign Influence, Trade, and Foreign Affairs

(c) barriers to the full participation of diaspora communities in Australia's democratic and social institutions, and mechanisms for addressing these barriers;

The governance of community organisations either through NSW Fair Trading under Associations Incorporated or through Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission (ACNC) could be improved by community participation in their Boards or Committees.

Those organisations with deep pockets can afford to silence their opposition by threat of defamation and the most community conscious persons can be intimidated. A particular organisation in NSW spent thousands of tax payers money in pursuing a defamation cases against its own members for a number of years. The case was settled without going to court.

(d) opportunities to strengthen communication and partnerships between government and diaspora communities in Australia;

One can make specific recommendations for benefits and support for diaspora communities including government grants and other funding on projects in these areas.

Senate Foreign Affairs, Defence and Trade References Committee submission page :4

These recommendations would strengthen communication and partnership between government and the diaspora communities in Australia.

- Aged Care & Health – support and facilitate CALD focused operations
- Family Services - support this growing area
- Integration – support for growing communities of significant interests
- Access to Law for CALD communities under pressure
- Assist the recognition and growth of Culture and History projects
- Develop the CALD Arts support
- Provide specific Youth Skills

The diaspora communities would respond very favourably and positively with the above initiatives. Hence, investment by government in this area ought be regarded as essential social and economic infrastructure spending.

Part 2: In particular reference to the Chinese community on racism

Part 2 address the stress and trauma of the Chinese community in particular to relation to (b) safety concerns among diaspora communities, and means for strengthening the protection and resilience of vulnerable groups.

The seriousness of the problem involving 1.2 million Chinese Australian should not be underestimated as it can have widespread national consequences, particularly extensive collateral damage to the Chinese Australian community.

The list of articles shown below, represents the sentiments of 1.2 million Chinese Australians who are loyal to Australia and has made Australia our home.

Since December 2016, we have begun to “cop” the racist tirades when the media first published adverse news on China. The Covid-19 epidemic also aggravated the situation with more than 400 cases documented by Asian Alliance in April 2020 (90% not reported to the Police) and these figures have been confirmed by the Human Rights Commission.

Trade Wars have led to WW1 and WW2 and recent trade war rhetorics can lead to a hot war as evidenced by the recent “talk” of war with China, is a “nightmare” for 1.2 million Chinese Australians.

We have no links with China’s CCP or government and we are independent except for our natural cultural empathy for the Chinese people in China, Hong Kong and Taiwan. The collateral damage to the 1.2 million Chinese Australians is hurting and is putting unnecessary stress and trauma on us.

We believe the pressure can be relieved if political leaders can call for calm and rational discussion against all kinds of racism in our community and our difficulty with China, thus restore the harmonious social fabric of our multicultural society.

We are genuinely concerned with the deterioration of our Australia China Relations which has been beneficial last 47 years for both countries through constructive diplomacy and people to people contacts between Australia and China. It also concerns us that it will cause severe damages to our economy and trade with China that will affect the lives of many Australians.

For these and many other reasons, we are sending you our “voice” and plea to help us through this difficult period of changing geopolitical winds.

Despite the increasing racists activities in Australia, we do not believe we are a racists country because there are still so many decent Australians and Australian leaders who have opened the door for the Chinese immigrants from Asia and China in the last 50 years.

We will help to welcome more tourists, students and their families to Australia etc to boost our economy and trade with China. We realise there are always difficulties in dealing with a rising China caused by differences in culture, political biases, misunderstanding and misinformation. We should use constructive diplomacy to solve them.

Within our community, we have talented people who have the interests of Australia at heart and would gladly volunteer to serve in any capacity to repair and “supercharge a constructive and productive Australia China relations” which our Government wishes to have.

We recognise the complexity of the international issues faced by Federal government. In view a great deal of new information, we urge careful digestion and process. Closer relationships within our own neighbourhood provides us with a bigger field to build relationships and local alliances. Our Asian Australian communities reflect the extent of this relationship capital. Australia can pivot herself independently into the Asia Pacific as a constructive leading nation in the area.

We hope the articles below will assist you to make decision for Australia for the national interest and well-being of all Australians

Concluding Remarks

We wish to thank Senate Committee members for their patience and interest in reading our submission.

As these submission remarks are made in the interest of social cohesion and a harmonious multicultural society, we wish to plead to the Senate for the leadership to make Australia a wonderful place for immigrant to live in and a show case for how diverse communities can benefit a nation.

The Chinese Community Council of Australia would be one such body who would be interested in assisting the venture

Kind Regards

Signed on behalf of the Chinese Community Council of Australia Inc.
