

In Politics one of the largest problems we have is the people making decisions have no education in what they are making decisions over.

The entire mentality of proceeding with a development project, for a quick dollar, at the expense of the Environment must cease immediately. Environmental decisions cannot be made at a State level. The Environment is too important.