As requested by the Senate Community Affairs Reference Committee, please find below the answer to Question 21. Hansard page reference: p.30

As Chief Operating Officer of the Australian Rugby Union, I attended a Weary Dunlop Lunch on 6 February 2015 at the Crown Casino in Melbourne. Typically, these functions occur twice a year and are regularly attended by 600 – 800 people.

During the course of the afternoon I may have spoken with or been introduced to over 100 people and I have a vague recollection of Andrew Cox being one of them but I do not recall if an individual made the introduction or it occurred as part of one of the many small gatherings who meet and mingle during the afternoon in various parts of the establishment.

Regards
Rob Clarke
