

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to express my opinions regarding the Migration Amendment Bill 2010.

And I have lodged my application for permanent residency from last year.

But now I am very confused for the Migration Amendment Bill 2010.

I started my student life in Australia since end of 2006. Before come here I spend 1 year to study english in China to prepare to come to here starting my new life. Until middle of 2007, my wife came here visiting me that was a very exciting news for me, but that is no for her. Because she had quit her job which is a creditable, well future career and high incoming job in my country.

We have spend lot of time and money on the visa application according to the current migration policies. Before we have planing to have baby and to settle my family here, but now we feel hopeless for our career and furture.

This Bill is simply going to ruining my life and people who just like me. Please think about this carefully. Because that will effect on the future and life of many people .

Thanks for your time and I highly appreciate it.

Regards.
