

Instead of using this cruel idea why don't you find in fair way solve the situation of you pending applications, this law if you passed is not only going to terminate visa applications also it will crash all the dream of these certain people not only you will break them in their careers but for some of them it is going to become option for getting depression for their life.

Some people came to this country with dream of study in different environment and settling down with new different condition for their future.

But why they suffer from your mistakes, if you don't want them here now why did you play with there feelings first by letting them apply legally with these certain point system and when they passed every things after many years long patience, now you want to destroy all in one move of cruelty and unfairness itself.

I suggest you please find another way for solution but if you provide this power to current government for making impact on coming elections is going to be shame itself.

Please consider the life of many people and their families hoping for their visa to approve for career and future so they contribute lot of good things in this country.

Regards,
Victim of this law if passed.
