

Senate Committee,

I would like to voice my opposition to the proposed Human Rights and Anti-Discrimination Bill 2012 as submitted by Nicola Roxon. I believe every Australian has the right to air his/her opinion about all important aspects of everyday life including religious beliefs and political views at work or social setting. We need to act responsibly and not force tax-paying citizens to pretend or wear masks at the office when confronted with foreign ideas and behaviour.
