

Bill 2010 ?

HAHa!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

What is that?

Is it one of those many rules for the Australian government to fool international students. I came to Australia in 2006 . I spent a lot of money and time during the past three years for the dream of finally becoming a contributing part of this society. After three years of hard work , honesty and dedication I finally succeeded to apply for permanent residency and I am holding a bridging visa at the moment. My lawyer told me that I should be patient because the process might take up to three years.

Now all I have to do now is to watch the news and witness how the refugees come to this country and get their permanent residency in three months. Yep, The refugees. Now let's compare me and people like me with the refugees:

I can speak a fluent English , I am educated , I am young , I spent a lot of money in this country , I have a clean police record. I came to this country in a legal way and more important, I have a real name.

But the refugees are not educated. They can't speak English , they don't spend any money in this country but they receive a lot of financial support instead, The Australian government does not know anything about their criminal backgrounds , they came to this country in an illegal way and more important , they don't even have a real name.

So you are basically telling me that If I could get on the boat and come to this country , i definitely would be able to get my permanent residency.

The bottom line is clear. The bottom line is that the Australian government wants to fill this country with a bunch of useless , uneducated people and that is cool with me but I won't let you insult my intelligence next time . I will pack my bags and go back to my country. Because this country is going to have a very scary future.
