

INQUIRY INTO THE FUNDING OF POLITICAL PARTIES AND ELECTION CAMPAIGNS

I refer to the public hearing of the Joint Standing Committee on Electoral Matters (the Committee) on 8 August 2011 at which the Australian Electoral Commission (AEC) was asked to provide the Committee with some additional information. The following information is provided on behalf of the AEC in response to those requests.

Donations to both the ALP and the Liberal Party

At page 5 of the Hansard, the AEC was asked to track “disclosure as to the manner in which equal donations to the large parties occurred after disclosure was brought in”.

Attachment A is a spreadsheet that commences from the 1998/99 financial year which is the first financial year that was entered into the AEC’s FAD Returns system. The data in the spreadsheet lists all receipts annotated by the recipient political party as a donation, unspecified amounts received from a named source or did not have an annotation and includes named sources who have given to both major parties during a particular financial year. Amounts marked as other receipts or subscriptions on the returns were excluded. The information has been collated on the basis of what was contained in the returns from the political parties without any matching with donor disclosures. The data does not include amounts from any “associated entity” or amounts received by the National Party.

If a named source has been recorded as having donated to at least one ALP or Liberal Party branch during a financial year then the amount has been included in the spreadsheet.

If a political party has chosen to disclose amounts received below the threshold on their return, then these amounts may have been data entered when the returns were processed and therefore will be included in the spreadsheet.

For the purposes of this data in the spreadsheet, the ALP returns were made up of the returns from the following branches:

- Australian Labor Party (ALP)
- Australian Labor Party (N.S.W. Branch)
- Australian Labor Party (Victorian Branch)
- Australian Labor Party (State of Queensland)
- Australian Labor Party (Western Australian Branch)
- Australian Labor Party (South Australian Branch)
- Australian Labor Party (Tasmanian Branch)
- Australian Labor Party (ACT Branch)
- Australian Labor Party (Northern Territory) Branch
- Country Labor Party

For the purposes of this data in the spreadsheet, the Liberal Party returns were made up of the returns from the following branches:

- Liberal Party of Australia
- Liberal Party of Australia, NSW Division
- Liberal Party of Australia (Victorian Division)
- Liberal Party of Australia – Queensland Division
- Liberal National Party of Queensland
- Liberal Party of Australia (W.A. Division) Inc.
- Liberal Party of Australia (S.A. Division)
- Liberal Party of Australia – Tasmanian Division
- Liberal Party of Australia – ACT Division

This information has been collated on the basis of the manual data entry of returns undertaken by the AEC at the time that they were lodged and the original paper returns should always been checked for complete accuracy.

Costs of elections and public funding

At page 9 of the Hansard, the AEC was asked to undertake an analysis of the way in which public funding may have impacted on the costs of election campaigns.

The requested analysis is complicated by the fact that political parties only lodged returns of electoral expenditure for the 1984, 1987, 1990 and 1996 general elections. No disclosures were required for the 1993 election and from the 1998 election onwards. The AEC, therefore, has restricted its analysis to only those years where firm figures are available.

Attachment B is a graph which tracks the growth in total public funding paid to, and total electoral expenditure disclosed by, the consolidated party groups of the ALP, the Liberal Party, the National Party and the Greens. The dramatic rise in public funding from 1990 to 1996 (due to an effective doubling of the rates of election funding shortly before the 1996 poll) was accompanied by a virtual flattening out of reported campaign expenditures. This limited data does not support a hypothesis that an increase in election funding was the sole cause for any increase in election campaign spending. However, there clearly were increased levels of campaign spending which were no doubt attributed to by the availability of election funding.

Attachment C is a table that provides the figures for electoral expenditure and public funding of the four main party groups. For each year it shows the proportion of election funding to electoral expenditure. It also shows the increase in electoral expenditure and election funding from one election to the next. The figures show that from 1984 through to 1990 electoral expenditure increased at a far greater rate than election funding.

To assist with the analysis of the apparent changed patterns in 1996, also included in the table are the totals of debt disclosed by the four main party groups as at the end of the 1994/95 and 1995/96 financial years (such disclosures not having been required at the time of the earlier elections). What this shows is that the three of the four main party groups appeared to have retired debt following the 1996 election. This may suggest that the increased spending in earlier election campaigns was, directly or indirectly, funded in part through debt making the previous trend of escalation unsustainable. The increase in election funding appears to have been used to consolidate parties' financial bases instead of funding bigger election campaigns.

The Canadian situation

At page 10 of the Hansard, the AEC was asked to obtain up-to-date information on the changes announced in Canada to the existing public funding model which involves tax concessions for donors, reimbursement of certain campaign expenses and quarterly payments of public expenditure.

Following advice from Elections Canada, the AEC understands that, as at 14 September 2011, there has been no legislation introduced into the Parliament of Canada that gives effect to the announcement made by the Harper Government of changes to the quarterly payments of public funding to political parties.

The AEC is aware that the Harper Government Budget 2011 delivered on 6 June 2011 announced the proposed phasing out of the quarterly administrative support funding provided to political parties. The current annual funding rate of $2.04 (per vote obtained at the prior election) is proposed to be reduced in equal proportions for each financial year until exhausted by 2015/16. Therefore, the funding rates applying into the future would be:

|                 |        |
|-----------------|--------|
| Currently       | $2.04 |
| from April 2012 | $1.53 |
| from April 2013 | $1.02 |
| from April 2014 | $0.51 |
| from April 2015 | $0.00 |

Following is the relevant extract from page 185 of the Canadian Budget.

“Integrity and Accountability

Political parties currently receive taxpayer support in three ways: (a) a tax credit paid to taxpayers for their contributions to political parties; (b) the reimbursement of eligible election expenses; and (c) a quarterly subsidy based on votes cast.

The Government is committed to continue strengthening integrity and accountability in government and political activity. Governments have a duty to use Canadians’ tax dollars with great care, and only in the public interest—especially in a time of fiscal restraint, when families are struggling to make ends meet.

For these reasons, the Government will introduce legislation to gradually reduce the $2.04 per year per vote allowance in $0.51 increments starting April 1, 2012 until it is completely eliminated by 2015–16. This will generate annual savings that will ramp up to $30 million by 2015–16.”

The AEC has been advised that the budget debate in the Parliament of Canada (known as the Speech from the Throne) is yet to be completed and it is expected that the legislation to amend the Canada Elections Act 2000 will be introduced once the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne is voted on.

I trust that the above information is of assistance to the Committee.

Yours sincerely

Paul Pirani
Chief Legal Officer
