Inquiry into IT Pricing in Australia

I wish to draw the Committees' attention to another example of Australians being ripped-off when they buy digital music from the iTunes online store.

When I wen to purchase albums by Jerry Jeff Walker, they are initially listed at less than $10. The screenshot below illustrates this.

When I went to purchase an album the price jumped to $16.99 (Live from Dixie's Bar & Bus stop). When I tried again later, the price displayed was again $9.99. This time when I tried to purchase the album, I received the following message "The item is currently being modified. Please try again later."

I suspect that Apple is trying to stop me buying at the US price, which is probably the one displayed when I first log onto the site.

I hope the Committee can put an end to the discriminatory practices of Apple.

Yours sincerely

Robert Webber
