

To Ms Maria Vamakinou MP

Does the Government's Social Inclusion Agenda differ to assimilation?
Does this mean that we will move to accommodate the needs of migrants in preference to requiring them to assimilate into our existing Australian culture?

Does it mean to share their ethnic culture and values to their detriment to our own?

Will Australia cease to be 'the best country in the world' ? Would not this be a betrayal of the many people who have come to live here because of our values?

There is no better nation in the world today to live in. Can we not keep it that way?

Concerned Australian citizen