Question:

Has there been any consideration, as yet as to the use of that campus for defence and/or other manufacturing purposes in association with the Australian Maritime College's research and/or training function?

Answer:

The City Deal commits to develop a master plan for the University of Tasmania's Newnham campus to support the continued growth of the Australian Maritime College on the site and identify preferred uses for the vacant land and building.

The development and delivery of this City Deal commitment is the responsibility of the University of Tasmania, as set out in the City Deal. The progress of all City Deal initiatives will be reported through an annual progress report, with the first report to be made available in April 2018.
