2024-25 Supplementary budget estimates

Education and Employment Committee, Employment and Workplace Relations Portfolio

Senator Matthew O'Sullivan: asked the Department of Employment and Workplace Relations on 6 November 2024—

Senator O'SULLIVAN: I can accept that there are reasons for people changing courses as well. I understand that. But surely the only measure of success that actually matters, particularly when you've got public funding going into a program, is the labour market outcomes. People going and doing a lifestyle course, a hobby or an interest they might have that they want to upskill themselves in, is not something that I think needs to be the priority. Surely it's got to be about the number of people that are filling jobs that are in demand by the labour market.

Dr Booth: That's exactly right, and the course list is certainly not focused on hobby courses. But I suppose there are a range of pathways for people to meet those labour market needs, and, for some, a part qualification lets them do that.

Ms Faithfull: Just to give you some comfort around fee-free TAFE, the top five courses by enrolments are Certificate III in Early Childhood Education and Care, Certificate III in Individual Support, Diploma of Nursing, Certificate IV in Training and Assessment, which is really important for us because we need the teachers and the trainers, and Certificate IV in Accounting and Bookkeeping. When we look at the priority sectors, it's agriculture, care, construction, defence, early childhood, hospitality and tourism, manufacturing, sovereign capability, tech and digital, and then VET workforce.

Senator O'SULLIVAN: Can you supply that list to us?

Ms Faithfull: Yes.

Senator O'SULLIVAN: On top of that, can I get a list of all the courses that have been funded?

Ms Faithfull: Yes.

List of Courses funded by Fee-Free TAFE and top five courses

Question

Senator O'SULLIVAN: I can accept that there are reasons for people changing courses as well. I understand that. But surely the only measure of success that actually matters, particularly when you've got public funding going into a program, is the labour market outcomes. People going and doing a lifestyle course, a hobby or an interest they might have that they want to upskill themselves in, is not something that I think needs to be the priority. Surely it's got to be about the number of people that are filling jobs that are in demand by the labour market.

Dr Booth: That's exactly right, and the course list is certainly not focused on hobby courses. But I suppose there are a range of pathways for people to meet those labour market needs, and, for some, a part qualification lets them do that.

Ms Faithfull: Just to give you some comfort around fee-free TAFE, the top five courses by enrolments are Certificate III in Early Childhood Education and Care, Certificate III in Individual Support, Diploma of Nursing, Certificate IV in Training and Assessment, which is really important for us because we need the teachers and the trainers, and Certificate IV in Accounting and Bookkeeping. When we look at the priority sectors, it's agriculture, care, construction, defence, early childhood, hospitality and tourism, manufacturing, sovereign capability, tech and digital, and then VET workforce.

Senator O'SULLIVAN: Can you supply that list to us?

Ms Faithfull: Yes.

Senator O'SULLIVAN: On top of that, can I get a list of all the courses that have been funded?

Ms Faithfull: Yes.
