Senator Nick McKim asked:

How many Afghan asylum seekers and refugees are currently in Papua New Guinea and Nauru?

a. Will these people be relocated to Australia given they cannot return to Afghanistan?

Answer:

As at 31 December 2021, there were 18 Afghan nationals residing in Papua New Guinea and 8 in Nauru. All were found by the respective regional processing country to be refugees.

Consistent with Australia's border protection policies, these individuals will not be settled in Australia and should engage in third country resettlement options. As they were all determined to be refugees, involuntary removal to Afghanistan by the Governments of Papua New Guinea or Nauru is not a valid migration option.
