Mr Bryant moved—That a new standing order 29A be inserted, viz.:

“29A.—(a) The following standing committees shall be appointed as early as possible after the adoption of this standing order and at the commencement of each subsequent Parliament:

- (i) The Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs and Defence;
  - (ii) The Standing Committee on Finance and Trade;
  - (iii) The Standing Committee on Health and Welfare;
  - (iv) The Standing Committee on Primary Industry and National Development;
  - (v) The Standing Committee on Transport and Communications;
  - (vi) The Standing Committee on Education, Science and the Arts; and
  - (vii) The Standing Committee on Legal, Home and Internal Territory Affairs,
- to which the House may refer, on motion, for inquiry and report, any Bill, motion, vote or expenditure, message, petition, report or other matter which has come before the House or any other matter coming within the field of Commonwealth Government responsibility.

(b) Each committee shall consist of a Chairman, appointed by the Prime Minister, and a nucleus of eleven Members, six to be appointed by the Prime Minister and five to be appointed by the Leader of the Opposition.

(c) By agreement between the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition, up to six additional Members may, having regard to their special knowledge and qualifications, be appointed to a committee during the consideration of a particular matter.

(d) Every appointment of a member of a committee shall be forthwith notified in writing to the Speaker.

(e) The Chairman shall have a deliberative vote and, in the event of an equality of votes, also have a casting vote.

(f) The Chairman of a committee may, from time to time, appoint another member of the committee to be Deputy Chairman, and the member so appointed shall act as Chairman of the committee at any time when the Chairman is not present at a meeting of the committee.

(g) In a committee appointed under this standing order, five shall form a quorum, unless otherwise ordered.

(h) Each committee shall have power to appoint sub-committees consisting of three or more of its members; and to refer to any such sub-committee any matter which the committee is empowered to examine. The quorum of a sub-committee shall be a majority of the members appointed to the sub-committee.

(i) Each committee, or any sub-committee, shall have power to send for persons (excepting Ministers of State), papers and records, to move from place to place, and to sit during any recess of the Parliament.

(j) Each committee shall have leave to report from time to time its proceedings with or without the evidence, or the evidence only.

(k) Except where otherwise provided in this standing order, the standing orders relating to select committees shall apply to a committee appointed under this standing order."
