- 7 REFORM OF THE AUSTRALIAN TAXATION SYSTEM—PAPER—MOTION TO TAKE NOTE OF PAPER: The order of the day having been read for the resumption of the debate on the motion of Mr Cohen (Minister for Arts, Heritage and Environment)—That the House take note of the paper (presented on 8 October 1985), viz.:

Reform of the Australian taxation system—Ministerial statement by Mr Keating, Treasurer, dated September 1985, together with attachments—

Debate resumed.

Mr Carlton moved, as an amendment—That all words after “That” be omitted with a view to substituting the following words: “this House, whilst welcoming the promised relief of double taxation of dividends and the promised reductions in marginal taxation rates, believes that the tax package presented by the Treasurer falls well short of the fundamental and lasting reform of our taxation system so frequently promised by the Government, and more specifically—

- (1) condemns the proposed introduction of the new capital gains tax;
- (2) notes that under the Government’s proposals the share of revenue carried by personal income tax will continue to rise;
- (3) condemns the arbitrary nature of the attack on fringe benefits and entertainment expenses;
- (4) expresses grave concern over the effects on enterprise, investment and employment due to the additional cost burdens on business arising from the capital gains tax, the higher rate of company tax, the fringe benefits tax and the loss of deductions for legitimate entertaining expenses;
- (5) regrets the package will have an adverse and discriminatory impact upon rural Australia;
- (6) notes the particular discriminatory nature of the attack on the deductibility of farm losses against non-farm income, and
- (7) condemns the proposed foreign tax credit system as likely to discourage investment by Australian companies in our region”.

Debate continued.

Mr Reith addressing the House—

It being 12.45 p.m., the debate was interrupted in accordance with sessional order 106A, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for a later hour this day.
