- (1) notes that securing the community from terrorism and ensuring our citizens live in freedom from fear is among the highest and most fundamental tasks of government;
- (2) condemns the Howard Government’s failure to take necessary and practical measures to adequately protect Australians from terrorist threats, in particular, its failure to:
 - (a) ensure aviation security as detailed in the recent report of Sir John Wheeler including:
 - (i) the x-ray examination of 100% of international checked baggage;
 - (ii) the upgrading of security at regional airports;
 - (iii) providing effective and coordinated security at Australian airports; and
 - (iv) ensuring the effective and accurate operation of Aviation Security Identity Cards;
 - (b) provide adequate maritime security including:
 - (i) allowing 90% of containers to transit ports without being x-rayed;
 - (ii) failing to enforce requirements that all inbound vessels identify their crew and cargo 48 hours before arriving in port; and
 - (iii) providing single voyage permits for foreign flagged ships of convenience to carry explosives and dangerous substances around the Australian coastline and into our ports;
 - (c) ensure security on our mass transit systems especially urban rail systems;
 - (d) provide a single co-ordinated response to terrorism through a Homeland Security Department;
 - (e) meet the international Financial Action Task Force’s 9 Special Recommendations on Terrorist Financing and the 40 general recommendations on Money Laundering—leaving Australia unprepared to deal with the estimated AUD $2-3 billion laundered annually through the Australian economy by criminals and possibly terrorists;
 - (f) adequately secure Australia’s increasingly porous borders; and
 - (g) establish a Coastguard to properly protect our maritime approaches particularly in the north and north-west of Australia;
- (3) notes that:
 - (a) tough anti-terrorist laws need to be matched with strong safeguards;
 - (b) the struggle to defeat terrorism does not require us to surrender the basic rights and freedoms of the democratic and free society that we enjoy in Australia;
 - (c) the requirement for effective safeguards is highlighted by the Howard Government’s record of incompetence in immigration detention, which has led to the wrongful detention of at least 220 people; and
 - (d) the counter-terrorist financing measures contained within this bill are a mere fraction of the measures required to bring Australia into compliance with the global standard;
- (4) condemns the heavy handed and arrogant tactics originally adopted by the Howard Government in planning to introduce this bill into the Parliament and have it debated immediately on Melbourne Cup day and also seeking to have Senate Committee scrutiny limited to just one day;
- (5) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) introduce legislation to establish a permanent independent oversight agency for the Australian Federal Police to oversee the operations of the AFP without delay;
 - (b) provide increased resources for the Inspector General of Intelligence and Security to enable improved scrutiny of the expanding intelligence community;
 - (c) expand the role of the Joint Standing Committee on Intelligence Services to include oversight of those aspects of the AFP associated with anti-terrorism activities and further adopt the recommendations of that Committee made last year in relation to the Committee’s access to classified material;

- (d) automatically refer all proposed laws relating to intelligence services or counter terrorism to the Standing Committee on Intelligence Services for report to both Houses of Parliament;
 - (e) recognise that a key safeguard against terrorism is the maintenance of a coherent and harmonious multicultural community and therefore:
 - (i) adopt Labor's plan to criminalise incitement to violence on racial or religious grounds by separate legislation; and
 - (ii) ensure the teaching of respect for Australian values in all schools;
 - (f) report to the Parliament on the question of constitutionality of the measures contained in the bill;
 - (g) report to the Parliament on whether the proposed laws are consistent with Australia's obligations under international law;
 - (h) ensure that fair commentary, artistic expression and criticism is not restricted by this bill;
 - (i) ensure that peaceful industrial, political and artistic protest is not restricted by this bill;
 - (j) excise schedule 7 on sedition and refer the sedition laws of Australia to an independent public review for consideration and recommendation to the Parliament prior to introducing amendments to the Parliament; and
 - (k) expedite the stalled Counter-Terrorist Financing and Anti-Money Laundering legislation, first promised by the Howard Government in December 2003 and yet to be brought before the Parliament;
- (6) calls on the Government to seek agreement with the States and Territories to alter the bill to give effect to the following:
- (a) require the Attorney-General to report to Parliament on the use of control orders, preventative detention orders and prohibited contact orders every three months, to ensure sufficient parliamentary scrutiny as is the case in the UK;
 - (b) require the court to hear a control order confirmation hearing as soon as reasonably practicable after the interim hearing;
 - (c) permit a person held subject to a preventative detention order to inform an immediate family member about their detention in similar terms to that applying in the bill to a person under 18 years, subject to any prohibited contact order that may have been made (ie, a specific decision that that family member should not be informed for security reasons);
 - (d) subject the provisions of the Anti-Terrorism Acts (No.1) and (No.2) to a five year sunset clause, not the proposed ten years (noting that the ASIO 2002 Act is subject to a three year sunset clause and similar UK laws are subject to an effective one year sunset clause);
 - (e) subject the provisions of the Anti-Terrorism Acts (No 1) and (No 2) to a review after two and one half years, by a committee as is required by section 4 of the Security Legislation Amendment (Terrorism) Act 2002;
 - (f) establish a Federal Public Interest Monitor with similar powers and functions as the Queensland office; and
 - (g) define an issuing court for the purposes of control orders to be the Federal Court; and
- (7) urges the Senate committee to look closely at the issues outlined above as well as:
- (a) the breadth and reach of the provisions relating to advocacy of terrorism and financing of terrorism; and
 - (b) any retrospective effect of the bill"—
