Senator Ridgeway: To move on the next day of sitting—That the Senate—

- (a) notes, with sadness, the passing on 27 December 2002 at the age of 67, of Prince of Wales Midpul, an Elder of the Larrakia people of the Darwin region, who was an exceptional dancer, didgeridoo player, songman and artist;
- (b) pays tribute to Midpul as one of the Northern Territory's most renowned artists, who was best known outside his community for his powerful, minimalist paintings, called 'Body Marks', which depicted Larrakia body designs from the ceremonies, dances and songs for which he was one of the principal custodians;
- (c) notes that Midpul only began painting in 1995-96, yet his works hang in many of Australia's foremost public and private collections, including the National Gallery of Australia, the National Gallery of Victoria and the Art Gallery of NSW, and he was the recipient of the Telstra Open Painting Award at the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Art Awards in 2001; and
- (d) remembers Midpul's long struggle, along with other members of his family, to achieve land rights for the Larrakia people, including the successful land claims for Kulaluk and Kenbi, and thanks his family for their permission to refer to him by name in recognition of his outstanding achievements as an artist and community leader. (general business notice of motion no. 337)

Senator Ridgeway: To move on the next day of sitting—That the Senate—

- (a) pays tribute to Mr Albert Namatjira as the first Indigenous professional artist in Australia, who was born one hundred years ago and died in 1959, after achieving national and international acclaim for his exceptional ability as an artist;
- (b) acknowledges that Namatjira:
 - (i) adapted Western-style painting to express his cultural knowledge and the strength of his connection to his traditional country, and
 - (ii) is now regarded as a national treasure in recognition of the cultural legacy he has left all Australians, as well as the inspiration he is to the generations of Indigenous artists who have followed in his footsteps;
- (c) recognises that:
 - (i) the legal protection of Namatjira's works provided by the Copyright Act 1968 will expire in 2009, bringing to an end the ability of the copyright owner to exercise an exclusive right to use and reproduce his works, or to allow others to do so in return for a financial benefit, and
 - (ii) the Public Trustee of the Northern Territory Government authorised the sale of Namatjira's copyright to Legend Press in 1983, thereby ending the ability of the descendants of Namatjira to benefit from on-going income from the reproduction of his works; and

(d) calls on the Government to:

- (i) enter into discussions with the Northern Territory Government to buy back the copyright in Namatjira's works so that exclusive control of the use and reproduction of his works is restored to his descendents, as well as the receipt of all financial benefits that result from the use and reproduction of his works under copyright protection, and
- (ii) in recognition of the contribution Namatjira has made to the development of Australia's cultural identity and the need to protect his legacy for future generations, explore all relevant legal and other measures that will provide ongoing protection of the Namatjira name and his reputation and standing as one of our pre-eminent artists.
