

To the Committee Secretariat:- Review of Aviation Security in Australia

I am a GA private pilot, I don't have an ASIC. On one occasion we landed at an aerodrome that had Regular Public Transport traffic and experienced difficulty accessing a toilet. From conversation with other pilots, it can be extremely difficult if not impossible to access basic services such as rest rooms without an ASIC, at major aerodromes and airports. I pay my airspace, landing and parking fees etc. like all other pilots, I don't wish to be treated like a criminal because I choose not to pay an exorbitant fee for an ASIC.

I do want to be able to land somewhere and be able to access a toilet, don't you when you travel?

Now that pilot licences are changing to photo licences with a background check by the Police, surely this is proof that we're not criminals and should be allowed to use the rest rooms.

regards
Chris McGrath