Report on the inquiry into the Australian music industry

House of Representatives
Standing Committee on Communications and the Arts

March 2019
Canberra
The Australian music industry is a challenging and highly-competitive industry in which to pursue a career. Many Australians dream of a career in the music industry and being able to make a living out of their passion and talent for music. Australians pursuing a career in the music industry invest significant time, money, and effort—often with little return.

It is vital that the Australian music industry works to ensure that artists and other industry careers are supported and sustainable, and that a diverse range of Australian artists are able to thrive. Investment in the support and promotion of Australian artists is essential to the retention of talent and, ultimately, the sustainability and growth of the Australian music industry.

Recorded music

The Australian recorded music industry has experienced significant disruption as a result of technological advances and the rapid digitisation of the distribution of music, forcing the industry to adapt and evolve. It is no small challenge to successfully provide a competitive and attractive alternative to ‘free’ music. The recorded music industry’s recent return to growth and decrease in the number of consumers downloading music illegally is evidence of the industry’s successful adaption to the digital disruption.

The committee encourages streaming services to publish clear, consistent, and transparent information regarding how payments for artists are calculated. The committee found that the pricing cap on license fees for the radio broadcast of sound recordings distorts the market in a way that disadvantages Australian artists and recommends that the cap be removed. The committee also recommends that the ACCC assess the new public performance licensing initiative, OneMusic Australia, when considering the re-authorisation of the Australian Performing Rights Association.
Live music

A thriving live music scene is essential to the development of Australian artists. Live music provides an opportunity for artists to reach audiences and grow as performers as well as being a key income stream. A wide range of accessible and affordable spaces for the performance and rehearsal of all styles and genres of music, from small intimate spaces to massive stadiums, is necessary to foster and grow a city’s music scene.

It is clear that the regulatory environment at the state/territory and local levels is a significant factor in the success of a city’s live music venues and its music scene more broadly. The stark contrast between the thriving music scene in Melbourne and the declining music scene in other cities demonstrates the importance of getting the regulatory and policy settings right at the state and local level.

The committee recommends that the Australian Government invest in the Live Music Office, to continue its work developing and advising on regulatory best practice to support state and local governments to develop regulation that encourages and celebrates live music rather than hindering it. It also recommends that the Australian Government invest in supporting Australian artists to tour in Australia, both in major cities and in regional areas.

Incentives to use Australian music

For Australian music to flourish it must be heard at home and around the world. It is essential that Australians can easily access and encounter Australian music—hear it on the radio, find it on streaming playlists, and hear it in our favourite television programs and in the films we see.

The committee encourages music streaming services to work with the Australian music industry to establish benchmarks for Australian content on locally curated playlists and makes recommendations regarding the application and monitoring of Australian music content quotas for commercial radio.

The digitisation of the distribution of music has provided unprecedented opportunity for Australian music to reach a global audience. The scale of Australian music exports is rapidly increasing and the committee supports the Australian music industry’s ambitious goal of Australian music gaining a five per cent market share of the global music market by 2030.

The committee recommends that the Australian Government invest in Sounds Australia’s music exports program and that it prioritise and support Australian music at government activities and events. It also recommends that the Australian Government work to develop mutually beneficial visa arrangements with the United States of America to allow artists from both countries to more easily showcase and tour.
Talent pipeline

Australian artists and the music they create is the product that every other part of the music industry exists to promote, sell, or develop. Making music takes a significant investment from artists—not only the cost of recording or staging music, but also the time involved in learning their craft and applying their knowledge and skills to create great music. It is essential that Australia supports and safeguards its ‘talent pipeline’, ensuring that Australian artists are able to create great music now and into the future.

The committee recommends that the Australian Government invest in initiatives aimed at training and supporting Australian artists and industry professionals to grow and develop their businesses as well as industry partnerships that support artists in the creation of new recordings.

Demanding work schedules, long periods of travel, uncertainty, precarious finances, and long-term career instability are challenges that have always characterised the music industry. However, the digital disruption and its impact on the recorded music industry has made already challenging careers even more difficult; challenges which are further compounded for female, non-binary and First Nations artists.

Supporting Australian artists that are experiencing financial hardship, ill-health, injury, or mental health issues is a vital part of preserving Australian talent and ensuring that artists are able to thrive, during the good times and the bad. The committee recommends that the Australian Government invest in Support Act to enable it to expand its services and deliver crisis support for artists and others working in the Australian music industry.
