The Parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia

THE SENATE

Climate Change Bill 2022

(Second reading amendment to be moved by Senator Wish-Wilson, on behalf of the Australian Greens)

At the end of the motion, add “, but the Senate:

- (a) notes that in the time between this bill passing the House and being debated by the Senate, the Government has opened up 46,758 square kilometres of ocean acreages for new oil and gas exploration; and
- (b) acknowledges the advice of the United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change and the International Energy Agency, that to meet the Government’s own target of net zero by 2050, no new coal, oil or gas infrastructure can be built.”
