Senator Fifield asked:

What is the number of people who live in the APY Lands?

Answer:

The Anangu, Pitjantjatjara & Yankunytjatjara (APY) Lands are home to approximately 2,230 Anangu people (figure taken from the 2006 Australian Bureau of Statistics census). However, the APY Lands population is highly transient, especially during periods of cultural business (December to February), sorry business and school holidays.
