Senator Ludwig asked:

Since the change of Prime Minister on 14 September, 2015:

1. How much has been spent on workplace ergonomic assessments?
2. List each item of expenditure and cost
3. Have any assessments, not related to an existing disability, resulted in changes to workplace equipment or set up?
4. If so, list each item of expenditure and cost related to those changes

Answer:

The Department of the Environment

1. $5230.50 was spent on 19 workplace ergonomic assessments.
2. Workstation assessments are handled directly by work areas and costs are not captured centrally.
3. All assessments, related or not related to an existing disability, resulted in changes to workplace set up to varying degrees from minor with no cost involved (eg. moving telephone from right to left side), to costs associated with sit-stand desks, specialised chairs and lights repositioned in ceilings.
4. We are unable to distinguish between costs associated with assessments for an existing disability and costs associated with assessments for other reasons.

Clean Energy Regulator

1. The amount spent on workplace ergonomic assessments was $7,303.00
2. 30 workplace ergonomic assessments were conducted during the period ranging between $175 and $620.
3. Yes. On completion of the assessments, the Clean Energy Regulator is provided with recommendations for changes to the workstation setup, including any special equipment required. These recommendations are implemented where appropriate.
4. The Clean Energy Regulator does not record these expenses in a way that would readily allow more detailed answers to be provided.
