Department of Education Question No. ED0371_15

Senator Whish-Wilson asked on 5 June 2014 , Hansard page 75

Question

List of non-university providers

Ms Paul: Sure. In Australia, about 130 are already registered to deliver higher education courses. If it is a private provider, they have to have every single course accredited by the regulator. So you have to get your quality control. Senator WHISH-WILSON: If you could give me some direction on that. Mr Griew: We can give you a list of non-university providers that exist now. Ms Paul: Including, as far as we know it, those operating in Tasmania, if you like. Senator WHISH-WILSON: Sorry, Mr Griew? Mr Griew: I am not saying that there definitely are, but we will check.

Answer

A list of non-university institutions registered in Australia is available from the National Register of higher education providers at www.teqsa.gov.au/national-register. The location of each institution's head office is included. A list of campus locations is not available.

As at 25 June 2014 there are two institutions with a head office address located in Tasmania: Tabor College Tasmania and Worldview Centre for Intercultural Studies.
