Senator Sinodinos, Arthur asked on 03 June 2015, Proof Hansard page 58

STEM students studying degrees in science, maths, engineering and IT

Question

Senator SINODINOS: How many STEM students are currently studying degrees in science, maths, engineering and IT ?

Ms Reardon: We would have to take that one on notice as well.

Answer

In 2013, the most current data available, there were 184,231 domestic students enrolled in STEM (natural and physical science (including mathematics), engineering and information technology) courses at bachelor and above level.
