Question

Please provide details of any analysis conducted of the forecast financial impact of the new formula on the distribution of funds between universities relative to the previous arrangements (excluding the damping effect of transitional measures).

Answer

The Department of Education and Training is currently in the process of determining 2017 research block allocations which are based on the data returns for 2014 and 2015 years and expects to publish the allocations data for each university, by program, in December 2016 on the department's website at www.education.gov.au/research-block-grants.
