Question:

Can you provide an update on Australia's response to the Beijing +20?

Will our response be tabled in parliament?

Will the response be published on the Office for Women website?

Can information on consultation on the development of our response be provided which organisations and when?

Will briefings on this response be made available to parliamentarians?

Answer:

Australia's Beijing+20 review report ('the report') was provided to United Nations Women and the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific in August 2014.

The report will not be tabled in Parliament. The report is publicly available on the United Nations Women's website www.unwomen.org.

The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet consulted across the Australian Government in the preparation of the report. As this is a Government report, civil society stakeholders were not consulted.

No briefings to parliamentarians are planned.
