Question:

Senator LUDWIG: As to the 90 per cent of Gateway review report recommendations: are they actioned by entities? In other words, is there a historical rate for: they make a review, they make recommendations, they action them, and the survey then says line departments have implemented those fully?

Dr Helgeby: We would be able to track that, and certainly the reviewers themselves consider those things. But I will take on notice the detail of that question.

Answer:

It is up to the Senior Responsible Official to action recommendations or to determine the continued relevance of any recommendations made by the review team. Refer to QoN F35 for the definition and results for the two related Key Performance Indicators.
