IMMIGRATION AND BORDER PROTECTION PORTFOLIO

(BE15/185) - Illegal exportation of firearms - Programme 1.1: Border Enforcement

Senator Leyonhjelm, David (L&CA) written:

* Are there signs at airports advising travellers not to export certain items? What other advice is provided to travellers to advise not to export certain items?

Answer:

There is no specific signage at Australian International airports advising travellers not to export certain items.

The Australian Customs and Border Protection Service website includes information for travellers about prohibited and restricted exports (<http://www.border.gov.au/Busi/Expo/Proh>).

The 'Know Before You Go' brochure also has information about declaring restricted goods on arrival and departure. This brochure is available online in 33 languages (<http://www.border.gov.au/EnteringorleavingAustralia/Documents/GuideforTravellers-KBYGFinalAccessible.pdf#search=know%20before%20you%20go>), or in print (English only).
