Under the SWAp, support is being given to improving reproductive, maternal and child health services to reduce post-natal morbidity among women and reduce neonatal mortali among babies. The Program also supports improvement of primary health care services and aims to increase the proportion of skilled staff attendance at deliveries — including hospital deliveries where high risk births have been identified. The immunization program continues to be strengthened using the GOS budget, and the Program is financing an immunization catch-up effort. Work is also being done on a credentialling system for nurses and midwives. Funding goes into a 'pooled fund' also containing funds World Bank, and NZAID which are used to finance a whole range of activities, thus it is difficult to quantify contibutions to maternal and child health in Samoa.
