

Family Relationships Centres Taskforce

Terms of Reference

The terms of reference for the Taskforce are to:

- review the implementation of 65 Family Relationship Centres
- advise on the performance framework and practitioner standards for the centres
- advise on the interface between the centres and the family courts, the Family

Relationship Services Program, the child support system and other social infrastructure

- give feedback on the communications strategy on the Government's family law reforms.

The Taskforce should consult with non-government organisations delivering family relationship services. The Taskforce will not advise on the selection of service providers or the locations of Family Relationship Centres.

The Taskforce will operate until 31 July 2008, by which date the Government's 65 family relationship centres will be established.

The Taskforce will report to the Attorney-General and the Minister for Family and Community Services.