

To Senators on the Senate Select Committee on Climate Policy,

I would like to say that I find it offensive and immoral that the Government sees fit to reward polluters with my tax dollars when the polluters should be made to pay to foul the land, air and water. These resources have to be kept clean and plentiful, so that I and those following can live, thrive and survive.

The more polluters are made to pay, the sooner they will find alternatives to clean up their act. The targets proposed by the Government are nothing but lip service to the urgent need for solutions to radical climate change.

Positive and meaningful targets need to be set to pollution of any kind, especially CO<sub>2</sub>, in the current world scenario.

Thank You

Noel Grivas