

To Senators on the Senate Select Committee on Climate Policy,

Why is there such a strong focus on emissions trading instead of seeking ways to reduce emissions?

Emissions trading is one tool to help reduce emissions, but there is a limit as to how much trading can reduce emissions. You're really just saying - keep doing what you're doing and emitting what you're emitting as long as you off-set it by trading with someone who is somehow reducing emissions. It's not going to work.

Please, get serious and focus on finding ways to reduce emissions, not just trade them.
