

Dear Senators,

If the government is REALLY serious about tackling climate change, they would take a leaf out of Germany (and Canberra)'s books and introduce a gross feed-in tariff. I stress GROSS, not net.

Further, the cost of electricity should be hugely increased for industry and higher end domestic users to reflect the full environmental cost, and the extra revenue should not go to the power producers, but to subsidising renewable energy development.

yours sincerely
Daniel Kaan