

To Senators on the Senate Select Committee on Climate Policy,

I feel greatly lied to and that my vote for the Labour party was gained by deception. My main reason for voting labour was for the stance it was going to take against green house emissions. I know lies are told year after year about education and health as both systems remain unchanged, although truthfully not too bad in the scheme of the world, but I really thought climate change would be different. For that brief moment I forgot this is only politics just words for election day. I look at my little boys and worry about what their grandparents generation has done to their future., why my generation is not taking any decisive action. I worry the grandparents still take, take, take and have the 'I'll be dead before the full effects hit' attitude. As for Peter Garrett and his Blue Sky mining company not saving him.... Well I hope he's not hoping for any help from the Australian Government either. I think everyday people are committed to making a difference.....But money from large companies talks and Australia makes a lot of money from selling coal. At least it still rains here in Darwin, we haven't burnt yet, or flooded but predictions are our storms will worsen and cyclones will increase. Why do jobs need to be protected if the environment is unable to be worked in. If water is not available in areas, if it is above 43 degrees everyday. Emissions trading must start at 20%, and we must lead to get others to follow, Australia is one area at high risk, and I don't have time to wait for plate tectonics to move me elsewhere. Sorry but 5% is worth nothing, the government was so desperate for people to breed they paid $5000 per child and no aren't even prepared to provide them an inhabitable future on this planet.
