

To Senators on the Senate Select Committee on Climate Policy,

I am writing as a concerned citizen regarding the horror of forthcoming Climate Change.

It is clear that the world experts on Climate Change envisage the real risk of a world catastrophe if greenhouse gas emissions are not checked. There is a clear recommendation that atmospheric CO2 levels must not exceed 450 parts per million.

Where is the policy that will protect the planet by avoiding '450'?

I do not see the currently proposed 'emissions trading scheme' as that responsible, mandatory policy.

I thought I had voted for Mr Rudd to obtain a responsible policy in this area.

For the sake of our children and grandchildren, please implement a policy that really will avoid Climate Change catastrophe.

Yours sincerely,
Dr Peter Heffernan
MBBS
MPM
FRANZCP