

To Senators on the Senate Select Committee on Climate Policy,

The world is screaming and the decision-makers are deaf.

Our children and grand children will never understand these half-arsed solutions, its time to step up as a country and stop the rot.

Please take the issue of our environment seriously, take a leadership position, the government will be surprised at how the global community is ready to change, for change.

I believe people being able to breath freely is more important than $$$.

P.S We are already in a negative downturn so strike now and ride the coat of the economy, jobs will come and go but our planet will just go.
