

To Senators on the Senate Select Committee on Climate Policy,

My simple view is that we need to tax pollution practice heavily so that a price signal for change is sent.

The tax raised should then be used to fund research, development and incentives for renewables and energy efficiency.

I suspect the current ETS proposal is more about "show" than "go".

Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Name: Michael Clanchy