

To whom it may concern,

Our business has been suffering badly due to the decision to means test the rebate.
This decision should be reversed due to the following reasons:

- If the aim is to reduce greenhouse emissions it doesn't matter who has panels on their roof
- Basically the only people willing to have solar panels are the ones who can afford it, i.e combined household income over $100,000/annum
- This rebate will slow down the overall adoption of solar panels in general
