

Hi Simon,

Yes our company has been affected by the means testing of the Solar Rebate.

As we are a new installer of solar panels, prepared to make a difference for the environment the means testing put a complete halt to that.

We had 6 people prepared to go ahead with installs and 5 had to pull out and we have had no uptake since.

With 1 person only on the books and no enquiries, this side of the business now looks like going nowhere!!!!

It's interesting to note that all 5 customers were just over the $100000 limit.

If the Government is true to its word about renewable energy then means test to $150000 and help the states with a real feed in tariff on our gross not net and we might see this industry pick up again and all the Mums and Dads can do their bit for climate change.

Regards,

Peter

Bone Electrical Pty Ltd