

An addendum to Submission number 4 of International Dynamics

I would welcome any full analysis of the free set top box proposal [for every TV not connected to digital] as has been made in my submission.

The analysis should include important errors or omissions which in the opinion of the government or any other person or organisation make it an impractical proposal as compared with waiting for a closedown of analogue at some future date [currently unspecified] many years in the future.

Target dates and commencement dates for close down are very different to actual close down. The publicised expected analog close down in 2008 and the announced postponement of digital radio from 2001 to 2009 illustrate what happens without proper planning.

If there any queries, please feel free to contact me. I have ample supportive documentation readily available so can give evidence and answer questions in person if required

Yours Sincerely,
Alex Encel
