TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

Establishment of the Inquiry i
Conduct of the inquiry ii
Agencies not providing evidence iii
Acknowledgments iii

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Recruitment vi
Recruitment of young people vi
Graduate recruitment vii
Indigenous recruitment and retention viii
Training viii
Accredited and articulated training ix
Expenditure and other data problems ix
Limited evaluation x
Devolution and the Role of the APS Commission x

RECOMMENDATIONS

RECRUITMENT IN THE APS XIII
TRAINING IN THE APS XV

CHAPTER 1

BACKGROUND: STRUCTURAL AND ORGANISATIONAL CHANGES TO THE AUSTRALIAN PUBLIC SERVICE 1

Recent assessments of reforms to the APS 3
The Context of the Committee's inquiry 8

CHAPTER 2

RECENT TRENDS AND ISSUES IN APS RECRUITMENT 11

History of changes to APS recruitment 11
Trends in recruitment 13
Engagements 14
Changing recruitment methods 16
Convergence of public and private sectors 16
An ageing workforce 17
Ongoing and non-ongoing recruitment 18

Need for more highly skilled personnel 19
Retention 22
The rising age of new recruits 23
A growing emphasis on work-life balance 24
Current issues with APS Recruitment and retention 25
Use of innovative recruitment practices 25
IT Professionals 27
Merit in employment 27
Open advertising of APS vacancies 28
Nationality requirement 29
Engagement of APS employees in receipt of redundancy benefits 30
Contract positions that become full time 30
Appropriate management of non-ongoing employment 32
Addressing the reasons for lack of retention 34
Tackling the ageing workforce 37
The Need for Mentoring 38
The impact of leadership 40
Enhancing workplace diversity 41
Flexibility 43
Change in attitudes and expectations of young people 44

CHAPTER 3

RECRUITMENT OF YOUNG PEOPLE IN THE APS 45

Age of recruits 45
Separation rates 48
Factors influencing retention and separations 51
Reward mechanisms 55
Recruitment of young technical professionals 55
Recruitment of non-graduates 57
Conclusion 59

CHAPTER 4

GRADUATE RECRUITMENT IN THE APS 63

Recruitment trends 63
Retention trends 64
Graduate recruitment strategies 66
Effectiveness of devolved graduate recruitment arrangements 71
Areas for improvement 74

CHAPTER 5

INDIGENOUS RECRUITMENT IN THE APS 77

Trends in employment 79
Strategies to increase recruitment of indigenous Australians 80
Retention trends 84
Conclusion 86

CHAPTER 6

DEVOLUTION AND THE ROLE OF THE APS COMMISSION IN APS RECRUITMENT 89

Effectiveness of devolved arrangements 89
Role of the APS Commission 92
Outsourcing of recruitment 95
Conclusion 96

CHAPTER 7

TRAINING AND IDENTIFICATION OF TRAINING NEEDS 99

Types of training 99
Training needs analysis 101
Identifying training needs at a corporate level 103
Aligning training with corporate needs – Investors in People Program 105
Performance Management Systems 106
Identifying future workforce requirements 109

CHAPTER 8

TRENDS IN TRAINING EXPENDITURE 111

Expenditure on training 111
Conclusion 117

CHAPTER 9

ACCREDITED AND ARTICULATED TRAINING 119

Accredited and articulated training in the APS 120
The Public Services Training Package (PSTP) framework 120
Articulation of the PSTP to other qualifications 122
The Public Sector Management program 122
Leadership training 124
Training for business purposes 126
Centrelink 128

Other agencies 129

CHAPTER 10

EVALUATING APS TRAINING 133

Training Evaluation in the APS 134
Agency perspectives on training evaluation 136
Participant satisfaction 137
Program reviews 139
Multi-level evaluation – the 'Kirkpatrick model' 140
Performance measures 141
Value for money 143
Challenges to evaluating training 144
Scope for improvement 148
Evaluating training providers and courses 151

CHAPTER 11

DEVOLUTION AND THE ROLE OF THE APS COMMISSION IN TRAINING 153

Devolution and formal role of APS Commission 153
Agencies' views 154
Key training issues 156
Engagement of the SES 156
Fragmentation 157
Training in regional areas 160
Cross-APS skills 161
Leadership development 162
Contract management 163
Human Resource Management 164
Procurement training 165
Freedom of Information and administrative decision making 166
Conclusion: A greater role for APS Commission 169

APPENDIX 1

LIST OF SUBMISSIONS 171

APPENDIX 2

PUBLIC HEARINGS 173

APPENDIX 3

EXPENDITURE TABLES 177